People living in rural areas know that this government is determined to destroy their way of life!

The "Islington Mafia" cares more about the rights of homosexuals, criminals and asylum seekers than it does about the people of rural England.

So many English people have escaped to the countryside to live amongst their own people, and to live in healthier surroundings -- but now the government has its beady little eyes on them!

Having ruined our towns and cities, the liberal do-gooders want to ruin the countryside too!

They won't be happy until the whole of England is some Third World Banana Republic only with us having fewer rights!

Hunting will be banned - whilst the barbaric Jewish and Muslim ritual murder of animals will continue!

Farms will be bought up by big business and the State and our farmers will be akin to feudal serfs, only with less rights!

Asylum seekers will be dispersed and more detention centres set up in the countryside bringing the crime-waves so "enjoyed" by the large cities.

As Blunkett lowers the classification for Cannabis, drugs will continue to flow out to the countryside from the cities where they are controlled by immigrant gangs.

The picture is bleak.

The people of the countryside are

THE EU: DESTROYING SMALL DAIRY FARMERS

SMALL SCALE DAIRY FARMERS are being sent to the wall by the actions of the European Union!

EU milk prices are set in euros which, since its fall in value on the money markets, has given European farmers a potent advantage over our own farmers. In short, it means that England can be washed away in a torrent of cut-price milk from European mega-sized dairies.

Of course the large dairies can make ends meet in competition with these imports, but our small dairy farmers cannot do so.

Whilst Euroland governments intervene to get their farmers a minimum price for their milk via the EU, our government couldn't care less and seems perfectly happy to see small dairy farmers go into extinction.

This is a betrayal of those farmers of course, but is also unhealthy for the people. It will mean more big business monopolies in milk (such as the Wiseman Dairy in Scotland...) and the death of "grass roots" dairy farms.

As with manufacturing, coal, textiles etc. "our" government seems to think that supporting jobs, supporting self-sufficiency, and supporting communities doesn't matter!

Following the devastation of Foot and Mouth this ongoing betrayal and inaction is exactly what farmers don't need!

If "our" government put in half the time and effort as they have to get rid of Section 28 and thus allow homosexuality to be promoted in the schools, then perhaps more small farmers could survive.

Yet again we see the same old pattern: government lack of interest, NFU stagnation and inadequacy, rapidly growing Big Business domination on all fronts; and grass roots death by strangulation

We must demand that small farmers are given protection and rights, just as small businesses right across the land should, against the monopolising sharks, against money-grabbing banks, and against globalist efforts to swamp us with cheap foodstuffs, materials, consumer goods etc... all of which means that our farms, industries and businesses die a slow and painful death.

TOO MANY VESTED INTERESTS!

FARMERS, RURAL communities and small businesses are always going to be sacrificed by Westminster government, because such government is unrepresentative of ordinary English people. It is government of the rich and powerful, but, hypocritically, "in the name of the people".

This is a lesson that we are going to have to learn by heart if we are to defend successfully our livelihoods, our traditions and values, and our liberties as a free-born people.

There will always be a Labour, Con or Lib Dem who will make the "right noises", especially if they need rural votes to stay in power; but the fact is that the governments of the UK care only for where the money is and what their ideology dictates.

For Labour that means looking after compliant union leaders, the homosexual lobby, and the wishes of the rich Islington elite which tends to help pay its bills.

ORGANIC IMPORTS!

SCOTLAND IS importing three-quarters of the organic food sold there, often from European countries where long-term payments of between £35 to £700 per hectare are made annually. Scotland is one of only a handful of countries (including England and Wales) not to offer such payments.

Evidence shows that organic food has proven health benefits and environmental benefits. It also adds value to production and helps to secure vulnerable jobs in the countryside."

PETER MELCHETT, Policy Director of the Soil Association denounced Tony Blair for supporting global big business like the American giant Monsanto. He said: "Tony Blair is wrong to imply that people are against GM food because they are anti-science, and is regurgitating chemical industry propaganda."

"The vast majority of the British public, environmentalists, organic farmers and businesses are pro-science - but this does not mean that we have to agree that Monsanto, Tony Blair and pro-GM scientists should run our lives and decide what we eat."

Now is the time to say "NO MORE!"

Now is the time to fight back.

Large rallies in London - taking the fight to the heart of the enemy - are just the start. They aren't enough by and of themselves.

There is only one way the countryside can defeat Blair and his Islingtonite cronies... and that is by being organised!

Don't rely on the NFU, as they showed during the Foot and Mouth crisis that they were prepared to follow the line of the government and agri-business -- whilst thousands upon thousands of farmers lost their whole herds.

Don't rely on the authorities -- they are told what to do by their bosses. That's why Tony Martin is still rotting in a jail whilst the man who organised the burglary of his house walks free and will probably get compensation!

Communities must start becoming more self-sufficient and organised. Local committees dotted around the country would send a message to Blair and Co. that the countryside cannot be taken for granted. Allied to local actions, and groups like England First and Farmers For Action this kind of local and national resistance to the liberal elite would send shock-waves through the establishment and show them, just as with the petrol strikes, that we are bloody angry and are determined to be heard!

It's time to organise as communities against the social worker class and their agenda to destroy England.

Our fathers and grandfathers fought in WW2 for a "green and pleasant land" only to be sold out ever since at every twist and turn...

Well now it's our chance to stop the rot. Don't let this chance slip!

BLUE VIOLOURS?

GM CONTAMINATION

The GM crops used in the UK trial sites pose a high risk of contaminating other crops according to a new European Commission report. European experts have identified the three crops being planted in the Government-sponsored trials - oil seed rape, sugar beet and maize - as representing a high risk in the contamination of conventional and organic crops. In addition, the scientists say that wild plants are at risk of contamination too.

NFU SPLITS FARMERS' POWER!

JUST AS in the Foot and Mouth crisis, when the NFU supported Blair's absurd slaughter policy, instead of saving countless herds (through quarantine, the use of borax for the non-lethal disease and homoeopathy that was used to effect in Cumbria), so the NFU undermined farmers again when a strike was called in late August.

With "more than 70,000 farmers" striking, the NFU withheld support and described it as a "risky strategy that could backfire", as if the gradual destruction of farming and the countryside can be saved by negotiating with the very enemies of rural England!

The NFU dithered and betrayed during the Foot & Mouth crisis, just as liberals denounced activism during the petrol strikes of 2000. But nothing shook the government and woke up the people to the great petrol tax rip-off like the petrol strike that brought the country to its knees -- but still had overwhelming public support!

If the NFU had its way, farmers facing ruin, farmers losing their livelihoods and farmers contemplating suicide should be left to suffer in silence.

Such actions demonstrate clearly that the NFU has ceased to represent the real interests of farmers. Like such unions all over Europe, they have become a separate leadership caste which has built cosy - and financially rewarding - links with politicians, agri-business conglomerates and the movers of so-called "public opinion". Now, then, is the time to respond by the formation of new unions and groups that are led by rank and file farmers, and which seek agriculture's true interests.

FARMING: GOVERNMENT PLANS LEAKED!

After years of running down farms, persuading farmers to take out large loans and overdrafts, destroying livelihoods in the foot and mouth debacle and much more, the government's plans are finally revealed!

Every farm in Britain should be taken under state control, according to the Environment Agency.

With Big Businesses as the largest landowners in England, agri-businesses are on the rise. And now the government's Bolshevik-style plans make it clear that the State isn't interested in what's best for farmers -- but what's best for the State and/or Big Business.

The truth is that the English have never owned so little property! More and more property is being snapped up by Big Business, foreign concerns, Asian landlords etc.

And that is why ENGLAND FIRST calls for widespread ownership of property by the English.

This is known as 'Distributism', a socio-economic creed first promoted by the great English authors, G.K. Chesterton and Hilaire Belloc.

We believe that all English families should own - not mortgage! - their own homes and their own land. This would mean a lot more families having the right to be family farms with a few acres of land.

With interest free loans and a strong push to get more people living in healthier surroundings, backed up with a push to breathe fresh life into rural communities, rural businesses, post offices, pubs, market villages etc.; we want to see a rejuvenated England!

With a favourable scheme to help resettle Asians and Africans in their lands of origin, we could dismantle large parts of the urban sprawl that has defaced too many of our towns and cities, and made life merely an unpleasant existence.

Our aim is a cleaner, greener, safer country for the people of England: in the countryside, the villages, the towns and the cities.

ONLY CONCERTED ACTION CAN SAVE OUR WAY OF LIFE!

FARMERS AGAINST GM CROPS!

MORE AND MORE farmers are showing their anger at government betrayal of the countryside.

As this government sides with minorities such as the urban pink mafia in pushing homosexuality in all our schools, and with big business in pushing GM crops - despite the misgivings that many of us have, more people in rural England have decided that enough is enough!

☞ We don't want to be sidelined as second class citizens.

☞ We don't want to be left to rot as we were in the Foot and Mouth debacle.

☞ We don't want to be used as guinea pigs by big business in GM crop trials.

☞ We don't want our ancient rights taken from us by a government which caters for all manner of degenerate perverts and minority groups.

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH!

The rural peoples of England are the backbone of this land. Without our efforts, without our stewardship, and without our way of life this land will quickly become the grey, boring, Stalinist State that a minority seem to want to push it towards — with cheaper farmstuffs imported (in the same way as the coal industry was destroyed) and the (im)moral values of the Islington elite and Guardianistas pushed on the rest of us!

If rural England is to survive, let alone prosper, then we must band together and take the fight to the enemy!

Rallies in London and other cities help spread the word and remind us that we're not a minority that can be ignored... but it's not enough!

We must start to organise locally. All of rural England must get together to oppose the machinations of the corrupt political parties. Actions aimed at embarrassing the government and organised local campaigns can have a huge impact!

LOCAL PEOPLE

All of this must be run by and for local people with no role for people who have any loyalty to this or that political party, the pro-government NFU or any other of the vested interests who want to turn the fight for England into a petty point-scoring effort to advance their own agenda.

With intelligent planning, imagination-catching campaigns, and free of the vested interests that can drag us down, we can achieve real power in local regions.

There is even the chance of local rural candidates standing against the Westminster parties, with campaigns run by the local community and with the representative reporting back to the local community. That would scare the political parties into action!

In short, the days when the countryside could be taken for granted must come to an end. The days when the people of the countryside organise to run their own communities must come into being.

out at the people steering society downwards whilst "Don't Go Casting Your Pearls (before Swine)" takes an hilarious swipe at the anti-patriotic media.

"Rock Them in Their Ivory Towers" is a rousing call for patriots to make their voices heard and spoil the efforts of the liberal types to wreck what we hold dear.

With its folksy, Christian, patriotic feel this CD is a big hit with people from 2 to 92! All the songs are easy to sing-along to, and the CD comes with a 24 page booklet with all the song lyrics, as well as photos of the rural America that Carl Klang is singing and fighting to defend!

sane, sensible, patriotic music... and that's how "Extremist!" came into being.

With 17 superb tracks ranging from acoustic ballads to electric guitar folk music, this CD has been a best seller throughout England, Europe and America.

Songs like the sing-a-long "We Want This Country Back" announce the patriotism of America's unheard majority.

"Why the Banksters Keep Us Dumb" is a direct attack on the banks and the misery they cause - whilst being a lively tune, a hit with the kiddies!

"Hang 'em High" is a fun song aimed at your friendly tax man!

FIND OUT THE TRUTH!

THE ATTACKS ON farming, the rural way of life and the countryside in general don't happen by accident!

The sooner we realise this the better!

Here are just a few books that will help you find out what's really going on and how to fight back against the forces which see rural life, patriotism, the family and common sense as enemies to be lied about and destroyed.

USURY by H. Belloc. With so many farmers being screwed by the banks over unpayable debt, it's incredible that so many people in rural England have no idea what usury is - let alone how to fight it. This handy little booklet explains what it is that the banks do to us, why it is totally wrong, and how to oppose it. £2.20

BLATANT BIAS CORPORATION by R. Bramwell. A clear cut case, set out against the BBC which consistently takes an anti-patriotic line. £1.90.

COMMON MARKET SUICIDE by A.K. Chesterton. This handy little booklet was written just before the UK joined the (then!) EEC. All of the arguments against joining the "common market" ring true today as we approach the EU super-state. 90p.

FACING THE ABYSS by A.K. Chesterton. In this book the famous English patriot attacks anarchy in the schools, liberalism in government and the agenda of powerful elites, with the UN and EU pushing for the destruction of all morality, natural justice and traditional values. £5.

THE PATRIOTIC IDEA by G.K. Chesterton. One of England's most well-known authors writes in defence of patriotism. Excellent arguments to be used against the Blairite fops! £1.70.

THE GUERNSEY EXPERIMENT

by O. & J. Grubiak. Shows how it is possible for local councils to break free of the tax-debt cycle, i.e. free locals from rates and taxes and stop borrowing from the banks. Some excellent ideas for local
